Start Your New Career Today As A Nursing Assistant

To become a Nursing Assistant (NA), you must complete 100 hours of training and pass the SC Nurse Aide state exam to become a Certified Nurse Assistant (CNA). Columbia Hands of Hope Nurse Aide Training Program prepares individuals with the information and the experience needed to become a Nurse Assistant who will provide quality care for residents in long-term care facilities, hospitals, home health care, private homes, assist living facilities and hospice settings.

About Our Program

Our program's intention is to give you the best nursing training and education with the emphasis on respect, choice, dignity, and compassion. In this career field you are expected to care for the sick, elderly and disabled. CNA's are expected to provide the highest level of respect and compassion when providing patient care.

Our Nursing Assistant Program consists of 100 hours six weeks of comprehensive nursing assistant training which includes basic nursing concepts with training in the classroom, lab and a clinical setting at a local long-term care facility. We offer Evening classes to meet the needs of working individuals' schedule. Students will cover medical terminology, anatomy and physiology and more.
